

The Stanford Synchrotron Radiation Lightsource, SSRL. A state of the art multi-billion dollar particle accelerator.

A facility serving 2,000 international scientists performing cutting edge research in fields as diverse as chemistry, biology, medicine, environmental science, materials science, engineering and applied physics.

A world where important research grinds to a halt for want of a vital sticky note

